

Cardiff & Vale University Health Board Environmental Management (ISO14001)

Cardiff & Vale University Health Board have for many years understood it's environmental responsibility and the potential impact that it carries. In 2003, CV UHB secured an Environmental Accreditation, ISO14001.

The adoption of the British standard, ensures that the UHB has a strategic approach to ensure that existing property, activities that place anyone on UHB property, and anyone leaving a UHB premises, does so in a controlled manner. The system targets more than just carbon, waste and water management which carry the largest impacts for the UHB.

Long Term

The Environmental Standard has been adopted and designed to encourage, develop and support positive environmental behaviour for all who come into contact with the organisation wherever they go.

Prevention

The system gives the UHB the ability to react and remove any negative environmental impact that could occur. To deliver a positive environmental experience, regardless of who or what, and whether contact is direct with the UHB or exists on the periphery.

Integration

CV UHB constantly seek new technologies and standards and aligns them to individual behaviour to further improve its environmental performance. As the UHB's environmental activity grows, it is able to match, compliment the activities of non-UHB organisations and or individuals.

Collaboration

Cardiff & Vale UHB proactively seeks to aligns itself with organisations and individuals that have a shared environmental vision. Whether that be managing the everyday activity of existing UHB sites or during the inception to completion when creating new buildings.

Involvement

CV UHB understands that everyone has an environmental responsibility, it actively encourages and supports all who come into contact with the UHB to help empower individuals and those around them to affecting today's activity for a better tomorrow.

We actively encourage each and every employee and associated partners to helping the organisation improve its green credentials based on the things they do and see. If there is anyone that is looking to improve on their environmental behaviour, needs supports or notice anything that carries a negativity towards the UHB's carbon, waste and water management please contact the UHB's Energy Manager :
